

A line drawing of a two-story log cabin. The cabin has a gabled roof with a chimney on the left side. The front porch has a lower roof supported by two posts. There are four windows: two on the first floor and two on the second floor. The cabin is made of horizontal logs.

A line drawing of a small, single-story house with a gabled roof, a chimney, and a small window. The house is depicted in a simple, sketchy style with horizontal lines for siding and a single window with a cross-paned design. A chimney is visible on the right side of the roof. The drawing is positioned on the left side of the page, with a large, faint, repeating pattern of the word 'COPY' visible in the background.
